

Geared for Service

Expert service
- regardless of the brand

Santasalo is the service provider of choice for many of the world's leading industrial companies. With more than a century of gear unit design and manufacturing expertise, Santasalo understands how to maintain and service even the most difficult, mission-critical gear units to ensure optimal results and long gear unit life – regardless of the brand. Our global service network provides support and technical expertise where and when you need it.

Getting the most from your process equipment calls for a long-term, proactive approach to service and maintenance. Santasalo provides proactive service across the entire lifecycle of your machines. We work with you to identify when to carry out maintenance, how to replace parts before they fail, and when to upgrade existing gear units to achieve maximum performance and trouble-free operation.

Global Service Capabilities

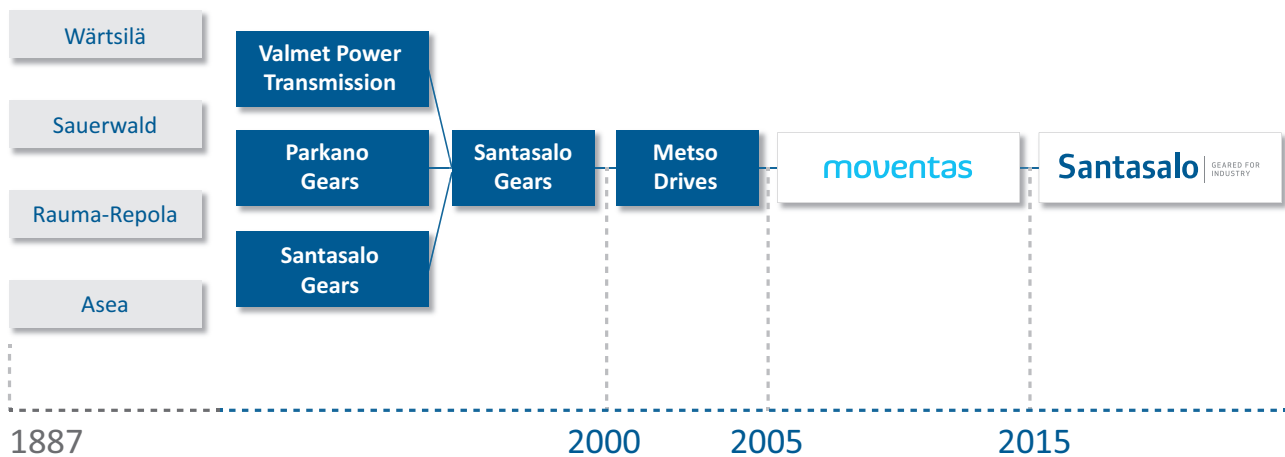

Santasalo's global service centre footprint is well equipped to support service, repair and overhaul of many types of gear units. With locations around the world, we can offer services within easy reach of most locations and can guarantee quick response and turnaround of your service project.

Rich brand heritage

Santasalo enjoys a rich gear unit history that spans more than a century and is tied to many well-known brand names such as Moventas, ASEA, Metso Drives, Rauma-Repola, Sauerwald, Valmet Power Transmission and Wartsilä. As a result we are expert at providing reliable, durable, and efficient mechanical power transmission solutions for a wide range of industries. Our large, global installed base of customers demonstrates the confidence customers place in us as a reliable and responsive power transmission partner.

Over the decades of Santasalo's history, Santasalo and its predecessors have manufactured products under several brands. With the exception of Santasalo, we are independent of these brands and their current owners. Santasalo offers service solutions for all of these brands.
